

What else do I need to know?

- Getting a blood test is how to know if you have hepatitis C. Any doctor can do this and those with experience in hepatitis C are listed on the directory.
- It is possible to get hepatitis C again after treatment so prevention and regular testing is still important.

Can't find something or have a question?

LiverLine
1800 703 003

Interpreter

webchat via our website

LiverWELL
Incorporating HEPATITIS VICTORIA

June 2021

Proudly
Supported by

Where to start with curing hepatitis C

Find out here

What is the Directory?

- A list of health services that offer hepatitis C cure or specialist testing and information.
- Information about who the relevant care providers are, billing, and other services available.
- Needle and syringe programs
- Read, download, or print information sheets on hepatitis C.

Where to find it

Check out the directory to find out where to go to get tested and cured for hepatitis C in Brimbank and surrounds.

<https://liverwell.org.au/liver-conditions/hep-services-directory/>

Or, you can take this to any medical professional or support person and they can help you look up where to go.

Curing hepatitis C

Maybe you've heard about it but not sure what the deal is?

- Tablets only for between 4 and 12 weeks (no injections).
- You don't have to stop using to get cured. There are no restrictions on treatment.
- It works - over 95% of people are cured.
- No nasty side effects.